A Bill to Remove Restrictions
from Building Upon It.

According to this new bill the building may be located in City Hall Park or wherever the Commission shall determine to locate it.

Assemblyman Baker's bill providing for a fourth part of the Court of General Sessions was passed by the Assembly at last evening's session.

Among the bills dropped into the Assembly bill box last night, it being the last occasion for introducing bills without unanimous consent, was one by Walter G. Byrne, of the Sixteenth District, New York City, amending the General Bureaus Highway Act.

This amendment provides that where a street, avenue or other place, through which it is proposed to run a surface railroad, is under the control of any other local authority than the Common Council of cities, the consent of such local authority shall be obtained before a franchise can be granted to such railroad.

The particular object of this amendment is to make it necessary to secure the consent of the Park Department of the City of New York, in the case of any street or avenue through which it is proposed to locate a railroad, before a franchise can be obtained.

By this amendment, too, the Park Department will be enabled to exercise its right of eminent domain in the case of any street or avenue through which it is proposed to locate a railroad, and also to exercise its right of eminent domain
in the case of any street or avenue through which it is proposed to locate a railroad.

Mr. Broome, of the Eighth, at the last meeting introduced a bill to amend the General Bureaus Highway Act, which he says, will particularly benefit the cable road.

One provision of chapter 10 of the Laws of 1880 shall not apply to any railroad laid out by any board of Rapid Transit Commissioners.
The second provision of the same chapter, which compels the sale of franchises, shall not apply to any railroad laid out by the Rapid Transit Commission of the City of New York.

Pretty Mary Sullivan's Charges Against Policeman Keohane.

Policeman John P. Keohane, of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street station, who arrested his former sweetheart, Mary Sullivan, a pretty maid, in turn will be made a defendant before the Police Commissioners.

Mary's story is that Keohane betrayed her under promise of marriage, and then refused to make her his wife.

Keohane acknowledged in police court that he was the father of a child, but he claimed that, instead of keeping his word and saving her from further disgrace, he had her turned out of his mother's house, where she lived, and declined to see her again.

The only opportunity she had of seeing him was when he was on post, and thither she went every night, but a police officer, who was on duty at the time, saw her and told her that she was not to go there.

Keohane walked with her quietly for about a block, she says, when Policeman Downes came along and arrested her. She remonstrated, but was dragged to the station by Keohane and Downes and locked in a cell.
